Guidance

Disapply means stopping the complaints process before an investigation begins. You can appeal about the outcome of a complaint after the decision to disapply, except when the complaint relates to a direction and control issue.

Direction and control means the overall policies of a police force, for example police resources and policing standards.

You can appeal if:

- your complaint has been disapplied
- you are not happy with the action that was taken after the decision to disapply
- you are not happy that no action was taken
- you do not agree with the outcome of your complaint after the decision to disapply
- you think that the outcome of your complaint after the decision to disapply was not a proper one. This means that, for example, you believe the outcome was not appropriate to the complaint, or the outcome did not reflect the evidence available.
